No Funds Available.

The knotty problem of where to get the money to pay the pensions claims under the Confederate Pension Act, is before the State Officials for consideration. The law provides that the Treasury shall issue treasury checks to the pensioners and if this mandatory warrants cannot be used. So far 504 pension claims have been allowed and there are 2,300 on the waiting list. If the 2,300 are allowed together with the 500 already allowed, it will mean an expenditure of between $300,000 and $325,000 and as the present administration is already embarrassed with an empty treasury and a large outstanding indebtedness, the question as to how the claims are to be paid is a puzzling one.

VERDICT FOR THE CITY

Quick Decision For Defendant In Tandy Damage Suit.

JURY OUT ONLY 20 MINUTES.

Circuit Court Gets Back To Commonwealth Cases This Week.

The $10,000 damage suit of W. T. Tandy vs. City of Hopkinsville for the loss of his warehouse by night riders Dec. 7, 1907, was quickly settled by the jury yesterday morning, a verdict for the defendant being brought in 20 minutes after the jury took the case. The decision was unanimous. The speeches were made in the case Saturday, the Court allowing three hours to each side.

City Attorney W. H. Southall spoke first for the city, occupying 45 minutes in a clear-cut argument, ably and forcibly presented. He was followed by John C. Duffy one hour, who discussed the law and instructions and reviewed the weakness of the evidence for the plaintiff in a most convincing manner.

Mr. S. Y. Trimble spoke an hour and a half for the plaintiff, the burden of his argument seeking to show a neglect of the city authorities in not maintaining an adequate force at all times to prevent the raid that finally came after a year of false alarms. He made the best of a weak case. Judge C. H. Bush closed for the city in a strong review of the evidence of the 16 witnesses for the city and in attacking the testimony of about the same number who testified that the rumors of danger were ample notice and that a successful resistance could have been made by a posse of armed citizens if they had been kept on duty by the Mayor.

The case for the plaintiff was closed by Judge Breathitt who spoke about an hour urging that the city should be made to reimburse Mr. Tandy.

The court dismissed the jury until Monday morning and they made quick work of the case after it went to them. A similar case of W. T. Cooper goes over and will hardly be prosecuted further.

COMMONWEALTH CASES.

The newly indicted prisoners in the county jail were put on trial yesterday, starting with a robbery case, Commonwealth vs. Geo. Radford, Alias Elkins, horse stealing. Tried and plea of guilty entered.

Commonwealth vs. O'Neal Sharp, house breaking. Tried and found guilty. Two to ten years in penitentiary.

Frank McLean, white, breaking into dwelling. Tried and convicted. Freeman Oifutt, indicted for breaking into smoke house. The evidence was all in by 2 o'clock yesterday and the final argument was being made by Commonwealth's Attorney.

HOPKINSVILLE WINNERS

Miss Waller, Mrs. Kolb and Mr. Melton Get Prizes.

The final awards were made in the Courier-Journal's Booklovers Contest Saturday.

The first prize of $1,000 went to John A. Goodman, of Elkton, the one of 34 who had perfect answers, 373. Six out of the best 10 were men, three of the big winners being Louisville people.

Hopkinsville had three winners of smaller prizes, the following winning:

Miss Bessie L. Waller, $25, 77 correct with 680 guesses. Mrs. Geo. Kolb, $25; 77 correct with 685 guesses. E. S. Melton $5; 76 correct with 623 guesses.

ANOTHER BIG ATTRACTION

Rex Management Always Hunting For The Best To Be Had.

TOLSTOY'S "RESURRECTION"

Blanche Walsh's First Appearance in Moving Pictures Wednesday.

After reading in the papers of last week that eighty women were confined in a building in Russia, the building set on fire and every victim met her death, the question arises, What is Christianity and how can such things be permitted? The question can only be answered by another, Why are the outrages permitted in Turkey? Answer one and you answer both. There is no question but that the Russian peasantry are the most cruelly treated people in the world.

"The Resurrection" will be seen at The Rex next Wednesday afternoon and night. This is a four-reel production and the leading part is taken by Blanche Walsh, one of the stage celebrities of the day, filmed after her first appearance for moving pictures.

Manager Shrode had no little difficulty in securing this picture for his patrons, but believing that nothing is too good or expensive for Hopkinsville people, he closed the contract. The date is Wednesday June 25. And remember, there will be no advance in prices.

About the play, we will say that "The Resurrection" is one of the most remarkable books by a most remarkable man—Count Tolstoy, a Russian nobleman. He gave up everything—title, position, estate, influence and all things else for the amelioration of the oppressed poor of Russia. The play at The Rex is so realistic that no one should fail to see it. Katusha Maslova, the resurrected girl, and her varied experiences are charmingly acted by Blanche Walsh, while all the other characters in the play are assumed by real artists. There are twelve persons in the cast, besides jurors, guests, soldiers, convicts, etc.

PLUCKY GIRL FOILS THIEF

At Point of Pistol Drives Him From The House.

ENTRANCE THROUGH WINDOW

Residence of T. D. Jameson, Pembroke, Burglarized Saturday Night.

Saturday night, at 11 o'clock, at Pembroke, a would-be burglar was foiled in his purpose of burglarizing the home of Mr. Thos. D. Jameson, by the pluck of Miss Elizabeth Radford, who was passing the night with Mrs. Jameson.

Mr. Jameson had occasion to leave home Saturday, not expecting to return until Sunday. His daughter was also from home on a visit, which left Mrs. Jameson alone. Mrs. Jameson at first decided to remain at home during the night alone, but, on second thought, called Miss Radford to be with her.

At 11 o'clock Miss Radford was awakened from her slumbers by a peculiar noise and looking around the room, by the dim light of a window she saw a man, barefooted, in the room, getting about on his hands and feet. She called to Mrs. Jameson, who was in an adjoining room, and told her that a man was in the room. Mrs. Jameson arose from her bed and got a loaded pistol and gave it to Miss Radford. The plucky young lady told the man to leave the house at once or she would kill him.

The intruder took her at her word and ran into the dining room, tumbling over the chairs and turning them over as he made his way to the outside door. In his exit he knocked two large pitchers from the table, breaking them to pieces. Miss Radford, believing that the dining room door was locked, went to the inner dining room door with the pistol in her hand, cocked and ready for action, but saw the man open the door and run out.

After the man escaped neighbors were notified of the occurrence but did not arrive in time to run him down.

He made his entrance by raising the screen of one of the parlor windows, and then made his way to the room in which Miss Radford was sleeping.

In the dim light of the window it was impossible to tell whether the burglar was white or black.

HIGH TEMPERATURES

Mercury Went Above 100 Degrees Five Days.

The government thermometer in charge of Mr. W. F. Randle registered above one hundred degrees five days of last week. The register was as follows: Tuesday 102, Wednesday 104, Thursday 103, Friday 102, Saturday 101. This was the warmest wave ever experienced in this section in June. There is only one instance of higher temperature here since the establishment of the Weather Bureau. On July 11, 1901, the day on which the good roads convention was held here, the mercury went up to 107 degrees.

Weather For Week.

Washington, June 22.—Temperatures above the seasonal average the coming week in the Southern states may be expected. The precipitation during the week will be generally light and local and confined principally to the Northern states and the Rocky Mountain region. No important storm is charted to cross the country during the week.

MORE OF BITULITHIC

The Council Awards Contract For 8,000 More Yards.

IN THE BUSINESS DISTRICT.

And About Three Blocks To Extend Into Residence Section On South Main.

The Council met Friday night with all present and devoted almost the entire evening to street matters.

After a lengthy discussion of city finances it was decided to order only 8,000 yards of street paving at this time, a little more than half of the amount advertised. The Southern Bitulithic Co., of Nashville, submitted the following bids: Bitulithic $1.50, Brick $2.30, Sheet Asphalt $2.05 and Asphaltic Concrete $1.51, 35 cents of the latter bid being for the guaranty. Two other companies submitted single bids on Asphaltic Concrete at $1.34 and $1.43. For awhile it was by no means certain that any of the work would be done, but after much discussion Mr. Dabney moved that 8,000 yards be constructed. The motion received the votes of Councilmen Harned, Haydon, Dabney and Draper. Councilmen Metcalfe and Bradley voted no and Leverett declined to vote.

A motion to adopt the bitulithic street and award the contract to the Southern Bitulithic Co. was then passed all voting for it excepting Dr. Bradley. The territory selected was Sixth street from Main to Virginia; Seventh from Main to Virginia; Virginia from Sixth to Twelfth and the rest on South Main from Twelfth to about as far South as Fifteenth. Two blocks on South Main, two on Water and four on Seventh street were left in the advertised territory.

No contract was let for valleys, the price of 17 cents being considered too high. The valleys and concrete headers will be advertised again.

The contract will contain the same conditions as the one with the same company last year, including a five-year guaranty.

An appropriation of $50 was made to grade the avenues in Cave Spring Cemetery for colored people.

MOTHER AT 10

White Child Breaks Maternity Record in Kentucky.

Bowling Green, Ky., June 23.—A perfectly formed and well-developed male child that weighed 6 pounds and lived 5 hours was born at St. Joseph's Hospital to Callie Still, a white girl, who was born in this county January 25, 1903. The mother is therefore only a few months over 10 years old. The author of her ruin is alleged to be Colly Bennett, fifty years old, who has skipped since he heard a warrant was sworn out against him. While books record births at an earlier age than this, it is quite an infrequent occurrence. The mother is rather large to her age and is doing well.

Webb Law Construed.

The court of appeals, in an opinion handed down by Judge Carroll, reversed the decision of the Whitley circuit court in the case wherein the Adams Express company was fined for carrying a shipment of liquor into dry territory. The court holds the Kentucky statute is constitutional and operative where it can be shown that the liquor is to be sold or used in violation of the state law, but is inoperative where it is delivered for the personal and private use of an individual.

TWO DEATHS LAST SUNDAY

Miss Crenshaw Succumbs to Tuberculosis After Long Illness.

BURIAL WAS AT EARLINGTON.

Child of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Twyman Died of Bowel Trouble.

Miss Lucy Crenshaw died Sunday morning of tuberculosis, at the home of Mr. Henry C. Richards, 920 South Main street, after a lingering illness, in the 38th year of her age. The remains were sent to Earlinton for interment Sunday afternoon. Her father, Mr. James Crenshaw, is a cousin of Mr. M. F. Crenshaw, of this city. On receipt of the news of his daughter's death, he made an attempt to come to the city in an automobile, but, owing to the heavy rains of Saturday, he was unable to make the trip.

Miss Crenshaw was brought here about ten days ago from Titusville, Fla., where she had been two years or more, hoping that she might recover from her illness. During her stay here she lived in the open air, arrangements having been made before her arrival for her to spend her days and nights on the upper front porch. She did not seem to fail very fast, and the family of Mr. Richards, who gave her every possible attention, were very much surprised Sunday morning when one of the family, believing she had about eaten a light breakfast, went out on the porch and found that the vital spark was fast waning, and in a few moments after she breathed her last.

For many years the deceased was a devoted member of the Christian church. Her mother died several years ago.

Little Ruth Twyman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Twyman have the sympathy of their many friends and acquaintances in their bereavement, occasioned by the loss of their youngest child, Ruth, aged three years, last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

The little girl's death was caused by congestion of the bowels and stomach. She was ill less than a week and there was little hope of her recovery from the first. All that loving parents and medical skill could do was of no avail, and after days of intense suffering and consuming fever the pet of the home was called back to heaven, leaving sorrow and darkness in the life of the doting mother and father. The funeral services, conducted by Rev. A. R. Kasey, were held at the home, East Eighteenth street, yesterday afternoon and the remains were laid to rest in Riverside Cemetery.

RETAIN BREEDING CATTLE

Thousands Being Slaughtered
When Chance To Replace
Is Small.

Washington, June 20.—Grave warning to the Southern States, especially Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, against the wholesale exportation of their cattle is contained in a special statement issued today by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture. In the past twelve months, says the statement, buyers from the Middle West have taken from that district thousands of animals, many of which go to the slaughterhouse, when they should be retained for breeding purposes.

"Some people of the South" says the bureau, "seem glad that these cattle are being shipped out, as the number of scrub cattle is being reduced and the South will get better cattle as the result. They do not look far enough ahead, however, or they would see that if the shortage of cattle is such as to cause buyers to come from the far West to buy these scrub cattle for breeding purposes, the chances of Southern farmers refilling their pastures with good cattle are, indeed, small, for where are these good breeding cattle to come from at a reasonable price?"

The department experts point out that the South is especially adapted to the raising of cattle because of the long grazing season, the mild winters and the great variety of pasturage. For that reason it has made an especial appeal to the Southern farmers to retain their breeding herds.

COURSE PREPARED

Rural School Supervision Books
Will Soon Be Out.

The standard course of study for the rural and graded schools has been prepared by Prof. T. J. Coates, Rural School Supervisor, and is now in the hands of the State Printer. Besides the regular courses of study there are supplement courses which include agriculture, household art, nature study and one entire chapter is devoted to standardization of schools.

When a school has been found to come up to the standard in every way, a bronze plate stating that it is a standard school will be placed over the front door of the school. In order to become a standard school it is necessary that the school have one acre of ground, a teacher whose salary is at least $50 a month, the teacher to have had at least two years study in one of the Normal Schools or the State University, a standard library prescribed by the State Library Commission, the equipment must be modern and standard, and the schools must be standard as regards sanitary condition, hygiene, etc.

When a school has been designated a standard school it will mean that the school comes up to the best in the country and an advanced standard school means that the school is better than the average standard of the country.

Bird's-Eye View of Section of Beautiful and Attractive Buildings and Grounds of National Conservation Exposition

NATURE was lavish with the grounds on which the National Conservation Exposition will be held in Knoxville, Tenn., from September 1 to November 1 of the present year. The art of the architect and the landscape gardener has been employed with splendid effect to supplement and add to the natural beauty of the Exposition Grounds. No more ideal spot for a big national exposition, such as the National Conservation Exposition will be, can be found in the length or breadth of the United States. Knoxville nestles among the foothills and mountains of Eastern Tennessee—mountains and hills beautiful at any season of the year and particularly so in the Fall with their wealth of variegated color and verdure. The Exposition Grounds are rolling and lend themselves admirably to the purposes for which they have been adopted. When the gates of the Exposition are thrown open on September 1 everything will be in readiness for the early visitors. Many of the buildings already have been completed, the others are well under way. All will be painted in snowy white and the ensemble will be one of the most striking pictures that can be imagine. At the National Conservation in Knoxville, a national exposition of the South, by the South and for the South, as well as for the entire country, the lessons of the great need of conserving the bountiful natural resources of the country will be taught in a most attractive and convincing manner. The National Conservation Exposition is the first of its kind any where in the world at any time; it is the first exposition to be devoted to the paramount subject of conservation. Some of the buildings of the Exposition shown in the illustration are: the Tennessee Building in the foreground, the new Land Building to the right, the immense Liberal Arts Building, commanding a splendid view of the grounds from its eminence; the new Mines and Minerals Building, the Live Stock Building, the new Southern Building, a distinct feature of the exposition; the Forestry Building on the top of a lofty hill on the left, and a number of other buildings that form a part of the big national show. Many new and novel features in the way of exhibits will be seen at the National Conservation Exposition. All of them are new; many of them are exhibits that never have been seen at any other exposition.

Purely Personal.

Mrs. Mary Howard Golladay, of Lebanon, Tenn., and Miss Nancy McCuddy, of Russellville, are guests of Mrs. Richard Leavell.

Mrs. A. D. Martin, of Frankfort, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. James Breathitt, Jr.

Mrs. Denny P. Smith, of Cadiz, is here with her husband during Circuit Court.

Rev. John Mein, pastor of the Baptist church at Cadiz, will sail for England July 2 to visit his old home at Newcastle, where his parents still live.

Miss Marguerite Layne, of Fairview, was in the city last week, the guest of Mrs. W. S. Harned.

Mrs. M. S. Kinney, after a visit to her brothers, Col. E. B. Bassett and Dr. Bassett, went to Litchfield Saturday.

Miss Hazel Tibbs went to Bowling Green Saturday for a week's visit to Miss Anna May Frost.

Mrs. Sarah Fleming left Sunday, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Hanbery, to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hocker, of McHenry, Ky., and to welcome the arrival on June 21st of a nine-pound grandson.

Mrs. Hunt, after a two weeks' visit to her sister, Mrs. J. O. Ferrell, has returned to Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Renshaw have gone to Dawson.

Dr. M. E. Alderson, Mrs. Alderson and their daughter, Miss Nelontine, of Russellville, have gone to Europe for the summer.

James R. and Frank Williams came down from Louisville Sunday and spent the day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Williams. These two young Hopkinsville boys are now holding highly responsible position in the freight offices of the L. & N. railroad company.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bowling and Mr. Bowling, Jr., and Mrs. Bowling, of Clarksville, came over Sunday morning in their car and spent the day with Mr. Bowling's aged mother, and Mrs. Ben S. Wood.

Miss Mary Beazley returned Saturday from Atlanta, Ga., where she spent several weeks visiting relatives.

Dr. A. C. Layne, of Griffin, Ga., arrived in the city Friday. He was called to the bedside of his mother, who is critically ill at the home of her son, Walter A. Layne, 127 East Fourteenth street.

Mr. Baylor Hickman, of Louisville, was here yesterday.

Failed To Pass.

A large number of the boys examined June 5 for admission to the Naval Academy at Annapolis were unsuccessful. The examination was very rigid and hard to take. Among those who failed to pass was W. T. Radford, of this city, who fell a little short in mathematics. He was appointed by Senator Bradley only a month ago and attempted the examination without time for the usual preparation.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CHAUTAUQUA NEXT YEAR?

The Question Up to the People
And Not A Few Men.

GOVERNOR FOLK BANQUETED

Splendid Attractions and Larger
Enthusiastic Crowds
Each Day.

Chautauqua No. 2 is a thing of the past. In every point it has been a decided success. The program for each of the six days was an improvement over last year. Not a single feature was open to adverse criticism. There was a larger attendance and more enthusiasm, even though the weather was the hottest ever known at this season of the year. But the question now is are we to have a Chautauqua next year? We can get it. The matter rests with the general public and not the enterprising men who guaranteed this year's attraction a year ago. The people must speak out now and say, by pledging themselves for so many tickets. If they will do this they can count on a Chautauqua a year hence.

One of the most enjoyable incidents of the week, to many, was meeting ex-Gov. Folk at the banquet table at Hotel Latham. Hon. John C. Duffy acted as toastmaster and in response to his call speeches were made by Judge J. T. Hanbery, J. B. Allensworth, Hiram Brown, Judge Thos. P. Cook and Frank Rives.

When Gov. Folk arose he said that he had often heard of Hopkinsville and after meeting its splendid citizenship and seeing the evidences of growth and enterprise and enjoying an auto ride about the city, he was prepared to accept as facts everything good he had ever heard of Hopkinsville and her people. The banquet was the conception of Col. W. A. Wilgus, who thought it fit that a man of Gov. Folk's prominence in national affairs as well as those of Missouri, should have an opportunity of meeting some of our representative citizens. Communicating this idea to others arrangements for the banquet were soon perfected. Gov. Folk set the pace in Missouri for the balance of our country for individual independence in city, state and national affairs. Gov. Folk said he would return to Hopkinsville some time in the future, and our people will welcome him any time.

The lecture of Mrs. Leonora M. Lake Sunday afternoon on the "Divine Rights of the Child" was pronounced one of the most forceful, clear-cut and logical discussions of fashions, the sins of men against their progeny, the weakness of women whose idol is the style of the day, and the want of manliness in men, the strongest ever heard here. The lecturer is a native of Ireland, and a woman of larger convictions and the ability to say what she thinks than ever addressed a Hopkinsville audience.

N. Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Eva Bashore, of this place, says: "I suffered female misery of every description. Two doctors attended me, and advised an operation. I lost weight until I weighed only ninety pounds. I dreaded an operation, and, instead, began to take Cardui. In a short time, I gained 25 pounds, and feel as well as I ever did. Cardui, I am sure, saved my life." Cardui is today used in thousands of homes, where it relieves pain and brings back strength and ambition. It is a woman's medicine, for woman's ailments, and you are urged to try it for your troubles. Ask your druggist. He will tell you about Cardui.

GOOD WORK OF CANNING CLUBS

Girls and Women Taught to Save Vegetables.

AIDED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Experts Furnished to Give Instruction In Scientific Canning While Kentucky Agricultural Department Loans Modern Outfits—Women Are Also Showing Interest In the Work.

The garden behind each and every farmhouse produces each summer more vegetables than the family can use. When winter comes the farmer and his family have to buy canned tomatoes, peas, corn and beans at the cross roads store.

The Girls' Canning clubs that the United States government is developing in nine counties in Kentucky this summer are part of a huge movement to check this huge loss in fine food and money that totals millions annually. Besides the saving in money there is another point which is commonly overlooked. In canning vegetables that are home grown the housewife is sure she has a first class article.

That the work may be done in the best possible manner, the United States government is furnishing experts to demonstrate this home canning work. The state agricultural department is loaning each of the nine counties a home canning outfit, and the counties themselves are furnishing interested teachers, parents and wide awake country girls to form the clubs.

In Jefferson county clubs have been developed at Valley Station, O'Bannon's and Okalona. During the latter part of May the government expert gave three demonstrations. Of course there were no ripe tomatoes or beans in the country that early in the season, so they were bought in the city and taken to the schoolhouses where the clubs were to meet. Besides the girls who were members of the clubs, many mothers and interested housekeepers came and brought their dinners so they might get the benefit of all the work that was done.

After the first lot of tomatoes had been put through the canner by the expert in forty minutes the girls were thoroughly interested and continued the work. It was remarkable how fast the work went with five girls as busy as beavers. As one old farmer expressed it: "Every year I've been on my place I've made up my mind to plant fewer tomato vines, for I have more tomatoes than we can use and give away. But I don't believe I'll cut them down in number this year if the girls can do the work this fast. I've just been figuring on it a little bit, and this little canner that'll set on top of a one burner gasoline or coal oil stove will can sixteen quarts of tomatoes every three-quarters of an hour. That is 208 quarts in a ten hour day."

"Yes," remarked one of the housekeepers, "and the great beauty of it is with the temperature you can get in one of these canners, you can can anything and be sure of its being perfectly sterile. You don't have to use anything with beans, for instance, but a pinch of salt and a little water."

"Well, it took a long time to get the old mothers in this part of the country to use thermometers to test their cream before churning, and I reckon it'll take some time to get them to use modern canners with thermometers so they will be certain of results in canning."

Artery-Finnell.

Miss Lois Finnell, at Georgetown, Ky., will be married tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock to Mr. Fayette Artery, of Paris, Ky. The wedding will be at the First Baptist church, and will be a brilliant society event. Miss Frances Pendleton, of Pembroke, who was to be one of the bridesmaids is ill and cannot go. Miss Finnell taught school here in 1911 and 1912 at Bethel College. She is a beautiful and popular society girl, a daughter of Mrs. Bessie Long Finnell, who is closely related to several prominent families of this county. Mr. Artery is a successful young banker.

Moore-Amoss.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Miss Marian Harvey Amoss, of Cobb, and Mr. Rawley Moore, of Washington, D. C., which will take place Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock, June 28, at the home of the bride-elect. The couple will leave on a northern wedding trip, and after July 8, they will be at home in Washington, at 1357 Meridian Place Northwest.

Miss Amoss is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Amoss, and is a talented girl who has visited in Hopkinsville. Mr. Moore holds a government position in Washington. He formerly resided at Cadiz, and is well known in western Kentucky.

Another Judgement.

Because Miss Ruth Mehl was hit in the face with a punching bag, Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist must pay her $2,500, a jury decided in the Circuit Court in Chicago. The young lady was struck by the bag which Johnson accidentally knocked from its fastenings in an exhibition at a theatre last year. She sued for $25,000.

THAT GARDEN GOWN

Cousin Bess Managed Evelyn's Love Affair With Consummate Policy.

By ELLA C. WILSON.

"O, Bess! My Dearest Cousin Bess! Now read with all your eyes, for I have just the divinest scheme! I am always provided, as you will admit, with a passable wardrobe. You, also, well, my wardrobe allowance has reached the vanishing point with the season half over! I am bored to death with every identical article of apparel. Now I'll be willing to wager a box of candy that things are in exactly the same state with yourself! Now then! Being a responsive spirit you have already penetrated my thought and assented thereto! Yes, we are to exchange gowns! The scenes of our respective dramas are so far apart that our strategy will be safe! Let us begin with our most fetching gowns. You remember that rose-colored one I wore to the Al Fresco lunch when you were here? I'll send you that. It is simply a dream. You will be irresistible in it! Now you send me something bonny and bewitching for the archery lark we are to have on the 19th. Afterwards we can keep it up ad infinitum."

With a few more rhapsodies, and exclamations points and confidences, Evelyn finished her letter and ran out and posted it.

Now, Lawrence Liscomb, the most "eligible" and the handsomest of Evelyn's "set," had utterly lost his head to this little butterfly. He spent all his leisure trying to induce her to consent to his "interviewing her parents," while she employed all her charms in endeavoring to convince him that she was far too young and foolish to know how to think the least bit about such things. Lawrence was coming to see her that evening, as he generally did come seven times or so per week. To enhance her eloquence in trying to put a stop to Lawrence's "teasing her so," Evelyn dressed that evening in her most bewitching style. Nevertheless, they quarreled that night. They often did quarrel, indeed, but this time it promised to be really final, for when Lawrence went away he said with great solemnity:

"I shall not ask you to marry me again for a whole month!" and he immediately added, in the tone of a judge delivering a death sentence: "I shall not even see you—unless you send for me." Then, with his best and deepest society bow, he stalked rapidly away.

Evelyn listened to the firm, determined click of his step on the pavement till it died away, then she softly closed the door and gasped. He couldn't do such a thing! Yes, he could; he was a man! He could do anything! But he wouldn't! He might, though! She returned to the parlor and gazed upon herself in the full-length mirror. She shook her little fist at her pretty double and muttered:

"You are a lovely creature, you just are! But you are a little idiot! You don't know a good thing when you have it! He's perfectly splendid!"

Evelyn didn't care for the clothes any more! What was the use of them anyway? She went straight to her room and sat down to her rosewood desk to let her cousin know that, after all, she didn't want her "old things;" she had changed her mind. She tore up half a dozen sheets in attempts to set it down with decent dignity, and finally decided to be kind to Bess and go on with the plan for her sake. Probably Bessie still cared about clothes! In this benevolent frame of mind she went to bed and cried herself to sleep. She didn't do it hastily, but with sufficient leisure—that she might as long as possible enjoy her sweet carnival of tears. The first thing in the morning she sent Bessie the garden gown and hat.

Of course Evelyn scarce looked at the letter or gown which Cousin Bess sent her in response to her scheme. For almost a week she passed long, long, weary days and nights, alternately "not caring a bit what he does" and being sure "she couldn't possibly live without him." At last a letter from Bess electrified the situation. The letter ran as follows:

"Who is Lawrence? O, Evelyn! Evelyn! What have we done? But I managed it, as mamma would say, with consummate policy. You do exactly as I direct and all will be well. You may trust me absolutely. I am older than you. (She was six months older.) I have done all for your good. But I will tell you the story from the beginning."

"We have just come in from one of our festivals on the lake. There were three boat loads of us. We were at our merriest when we overhauled a knight of the paddle, a stranger enjoying in his canoe. As we passed him singing the Lorelei in our most sentimental fashion, he rested on his paddle and stared at me as if I were a ghost. I had the forward seat in our boat, and the light of the bow lantern was on me as well as the brilliant moonlight, but you may never again tell me that love is blind! The knight took two or three strokes as though he would approach and accost me, then suddenly turned his canoe about and disappeared swiftly down the lake. You may be sure I had to endure a good deal of chaffing. They all declared that I had bewitched ed the man with my dazzling new gown, which, by the way, seems to have been the literal truth.

"I cannot tell you how deliciously romantic it was! But it turns out all prose for me. The poetry of it is yours! An hour or so later a small boat made its way up the lake at life and death speed, and made directly for the bow of our boat. The youngster who was rowing the same, handed me a letter and disappeared again as swiftly as had his chief before him. In the light of the lantern I could see that the letter was addressed to you! After all, love is blind, for that Lawrence, whoever he may be, had been deceived by the gown—as you will see."

"Once in the privacy of my own room I had to decide what to do with the letter. If I forwarded it to you, it would be too late to act! I inclosed the letter. Stop right here and read it before you finish this."

Evelyn had, of course recognized the handwriting of "the inclosed;" but now she obeyed her cousin and read it again, this time understandingly.

"O! Evelyn, My Darling! (And Bessie's eyes had looked upon that!) I cannot resist! I must break my vow. Just once more I plead. That dear, familiar, ravishing gown! The quaint turn of your dear, golden head which no one on earth is capable of except your own precious self! (Indeed!) Do not think I followed you up. I did not even know that you ever came to this town. Darling, you and I will never be able to forget. Write me one of your adorable little letters and tell me where I may meet you—alone. You must let me see you just this once more; then I will go away to Japan or any outlandish place you want me to! Only, Evelyn, you will say "Stay," won't you? You can, you must. I shall call at the postoffice every hour till I hear from you," etc., etc.

Evelyn's fever ran higher and higher every time she read this very ordinary lover-epistle. At last she happened to remember that she was reading a letter from Cousin Bess. She returned to it languidly.

"Now I am supposing that you have read the letter. Isn't it a document? (A document! Humph!) You see, I positively couldn't allow you to drive to despair and perhaps to death, so chivalrous a savior. I am sure I have acted for the best. I got out your last letter, copied your handwriting. (The thing I told him simply that I (or was it you?) was going home this morning, and would see him any evening he chose to call. It was the best I could do. I signed your initials, and then I actually posted that fraud of a letter. I did not put in any tootsie-wootsie, not knowing exactly how affairs stand. Otherwise, I would have. Now you be at your prettiest every evening till he calls—and you won't have to wait long after he gets my letter! Yours in an agony of suspense,

"COUSIN BESS."

Cousin Bess did not have to dwell long in her agony of suspense. Half an hour later, fancy free, she was so occupied building airy castles in Spain that she never heard the loud ringing at the door-bell. She didn't notice anything at all, indeed, until some one rushed in through the parlor and made real some of her castles by snatching her in his arms.

Explanation was impossible. That infuriated boy would have none of it. He stopped her every time—in his own way, and finally exclaimed impatiently:

"Confusion to explanations! It's all right as it is!"

Scientists' Record of Time.

Each fossiliferous rock bed contains characteristic form or groups of forms that determine the period in which it was mud or sand. Former Director Powell of the United States geological survey once tersely explained to a congressional committee the value of paleontology by saying that it is "the geologist's clock," by which he tells the time when rock beds were formed. The economic importance of paleontology has been repeatedly shown in this country. In the earliest exploitation of anthracite coal thousands of dollars were fruitlessly expended in New York in search of coal beds until the New York geologists showed that the beds in that state could contain no coal. The fossils in the rocks exploited are Devonian, whereas the fossils of the Pennsylvania anthracite coal beds belong to the carboniferous, a much later period. This discovery at once stopped a useless expenditure of money.

Fight Between Rooks and Seagulls.

A Dover correspondent reports a curious incident which was seen at a farm at Elms Vale, on the confines of the borough. A flock of seagulls, flying inland, had taken possession of a newly sown field, and were pecking away contentedly, when a still more numerous flock of rooks swooped down and attacked the gulls. The rooks being about two to each gull, flapped and rushed the gulls until they withdrew to a field some distance off. The victorious rooks then proceeded to enjoy themselves in the newly-sown field, having first set what were apparently sentries along the side of the field.

It was amusing to watch these sentries hustling away any gull which strayed too near. It has been noted by naturalists that this setting of sentries is in accordance with the habits of rooks.—London Telegraph.

Made His Blessing Retroactive.
The father of a family who had been striving to bring up his children in the way they should go was very much annoyed at his son's uncouth habit of helping himself to a few bites before grace had been said. The stereotyped form called for: "A blessing on what we are about to eat," but one occasion being particularly exasperating, he astounded the young man by adding to his petition, "and on that which has already been eaten."

Certain Old School Books.

The state board urges that all old school books be sterilized and tells how it can be done to the damage of the bacteria, but not to the books. We suppose it is right. It is better that children live healthfully than that so time honored an institution as the combination school book and towel survive.—Toledo Blade.

SERVE LAMB PROPERLY

SOME RECIPES THE HOUSEWIFE
WILL FIND OF USE.

Chops Cooked by This Direction Will Be Found Delicious—Proper Method of Preparing Braised Breast
—Cutlets, Duchess.

Lamb Chops, Montepan.—Have the chops cut about a quarter of an inch thick and nicely trimmed. Dip them in beaten egg and then roll them in a seasoning of finely minced parsley,
a little salt and pepper, grated lemon peel and a little grated nutmeg. Heat
a large lump of butter in a deep frying pan, put in the chops and fry till well browned. Put a tablespoonful of flour and a small lump of butter into a stewpan, stir over the fire, pour in one-half pint of clear veal gravy and stir till boiling. Drain the chops, place them on a hot dish, stir in one wine
glassful of red wine with the sauce,
strain it over the chops and serve.

Braised Breast of Lamb—Remove the bones from a breast of lamb with a sharp pointed knife, season the meat
well with salt and pepper, and roll it up and tie securely with twine. Chop fine one onion, a slice of carrot and a slice of turnip. Put these in a braising pan with a lump of butter and stir over a brisk fire for five minutes; then put in the lamb, sprinkling it well with flour. Place the lid on and stand the stewpan where the meat will cook slowly. When ready, remove the meat, cut off the string and place on a hot dish. Skim the fat off the gravy, strain the latter over the meat, and serve while very hot with a sauceboat
of tomato sauce.

Lamb Cutlets, Duchess.—Trim neatly cutlets that have been cut from a neck of lamb, scraping the top of the bone till clean. Place them in a frying pan with a lump of butter and
fry. When cooked drain the cutlets and leave till cold. Put into saucepan two or three mushrooms, a finely chopped onion, a sprig of parsley and a lump of butter. Stir over the fire till hot, then pour in one breakfast cupful of white sauce, the juice of a lemon and a liaison of three well beaten yolks of eggs and one tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Stir this mixture by the side of the fire till it is the thickness of cream, then dip the cut-lets into it, coating them well with the sauce and setting them to one side to cool. Brush the cutlets over with beaten yolks of egg, roll them in bread crumbs and fry them in butter till well browned. Put a puree of green peas in the center of a hot dish, forming the cutlets around it in an upright position, slightly overlapping one another, and serve with a sauceboat of white sauce.

Salad Rouge et Blanc.

Take a close, firm red cabbage, trim off the outside leaves and cut into four pieces, wash in plenty of water and drain. Break the leaves apart, remove the stalks and ribs and cut the rest into shreds. Now cut the heart and white sticks of two heads of celery into pieces and mix them with the cabbage in a salad bowl, garnish with young green tops of celery and serve with a dressing poured over all, prepared as follows: Beat one egg and mix in gradually a teaspoonful of salad oil, a tablespoonful of vinegar and a half teaspoonful each of sugar and dry mustard. Season with a little salt, and serve.

Onion and Tomato Salad.

Take half a dozen firm ripe tomatoes of medium size, wipe them with a wet towel and cut them into slices
a quarter of an inch thick. Peel a medium-sized onion (Spanish or Bermuda) and slice very thin. Arrange the sliced onion and tomato in layers in the salad bowl and pour over them a plain salad dressing made by mixing together one teaspoonful of salad oil,
two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a half teaspoonful of salt and a half saltspoonful of pepper. Use this salad as soon as made. I should have said that young green onions may be used for this salad as well as the others.

Pea Soup.

One cupful or one-half can peas, one tablespoonful sugar, one pint cold water, one pint milk, one slice onion,
two tablespoonfuls flour, two tea-spoonfuls salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper. Drain liquid from peas and rinse, add sugar and water and boil slowly twenty minutes. Rub through sieve, reheat and add flour, butter and seasoning cooking together. Scald milk with slice of onion and strain;
add milk to first mixture and serve very hot with croutons.

Fruited Gelatin.

Three-fourths box gelatin, two oranges, 12 walnuts, two lemons, one-half pint cold water, three bananas,
one pint of water, two cups sugar.
Soak gelatin in cold water and add boiling sugar and lemon juice. Strain and set away till it begins to thicken.
The gelatin may be soaked in brandy
if preferred. Figs, dates and candied cherries also may be added. Cut in small pieces. Mold, serve on platter mounded with whipped cream.

Care of Aluminum Ware.

There are two kinds of aluminum ware, the "spun" and the "cast." The spun is much lighter, and should be chosen for light weight utensils, and not for frying pans or serviceable kettles. Never use any alkali in water in which aluminum is washed. It will cause the outer surface to become dark. Polish nice ware weekly with a good whitening or silver cream and the ware retains its luster longer.

GOOD NEWS

Many Hopkinsville Readers
Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of back sufferers in this vicinity are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame, weak and aching back has no more,
thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills.
Thousands upon thousands of people are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy.
Here is an example worth reading:
T. F. Redd, Cadiz, Ky., says:
Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I ever tried for kidney trouble. The action of my kidneys was so frequent that I couldn't get a good night's rest. Pains in my back and a bearing-down feeling through my loins, also caused me much annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me at once and soon
made me well."

NEW IN LINE OF TOAST

EXCELLENT DISHES MEANT TO BE SERVED WITH VEGETABLES.

For Preparation of Celery the Outside
Stalks Should Be Used—Anchovy
Toast Delicious—When Made
With Cheese.

Celery Toast—For this the outside stalks of celery can be used. Cut them into inch lengths, put them over the fire in enough hot water to cover them, and stew until the celery is tender. Remove from the water and add to a cup of this an equal quantity of milk, thicken with a heaping tablespoonful each of butter and flour, stir until smooth and thick, return the celery dice to this, salt and pepper to taste, and pour over dipped and buttered toast or over fried bread.

Anchovy Toast—Make your toast;
after trimming off the crust butter lightly and spread sparingly with anchovy paste. Cook together a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour,
pour upon them a cupful of milk, stir until it is thick and smooth and put into it two hard boiled eggs, chopped coarsely. When the eggs are hot through, pepper to taste—the anchovy will probably supply enough salt—and pour the egg sauce on the anchovy spread toast.

This is more a relish than a main dish, but if you choose to make more sauce and double the quantity of egg used you can have a good dish for Sunday night supper or for a family or even a company lunch.

Cheese Toast, I.—Slice bread thin and butter lightly. Lay between two thicknesses of a thin slice of American dairy cheese; heat a little butter
in a frying pan, put the cheese sandwiches in this, and brown delicately, taking long enough about it to have the cheese melted on the inside.
Sprinkle with salt before serving.

Cheese Toast, II.—Heat half a cupful of shaved cheese in a saucepan,
and when it is melted add to it a cupful of milk; stir until milk and cheese
are well blended. Beat an egg light, pour some of the hot cheese and egg
upon it, and return to the saucepan,
cook one minute, season with salt
and red pepper and paprika, and pour upon buttered toast in a hot dish.

Stuffed Eggs.

Boil 3 eggs very hard, shell and cut in halves lengthwise. Take out yolks and mash them fine, mix with 1½ tablespoons olive oil, 1 small teaspoon of mustard, add pepper and salt and enough vinegar to thin sufficiently.
Cut a little parsley very fine and mix in dressing, then fill cavities with dressing. Take two toothpicks and run through egg slantwise so they cross
each other in center. They can be removed by the one who is to partake of the stuffed eggs. These can be varied by mincing 2 sardines very fine
and adding to mixture before stuffing
the egg.

Boiled Rice.

First wash the rice in cold water.
Then place rice in a medium sized stewpan with the water two inches above the rice. This quantity of water must remain the same during the boiling. As soon as the water boils the heat must be lowered. Boil slowly for half an hour. The stewpan cover must be kept on the rice and not lifted during the boiling. That is the secret of Chinese success in rice boiling. It must not be stirred. It will then come out snowy white and every grain will be whole.

Graham Cake.

Three eggs, beaten with one cup of sugar, four tablespoons of hot water, one heaping cup of flour, sifted, with one heaping teaspoon of baking powder, and lastly add two teaspoons of anise seed. Bake in a large shallow tin. When done take from oven and let it cool a little. Turn out and cut into inch-thick slices. Cut each slice into two pieces. Return to tin and put into oven and brown on both cut sides.

Spice Cake.

Here is my recipe for spice cake
that I always use unless I make the famous apple sauce cake: One and one-half cups of sugar, one cup of molasses, one-half cup of butter, one and one-half cups of sour milk, two and one-half teaspoons of saleratus,
spice to taste, one cup of raisins,
three cups of flour, three eggs beaten in last. This makes two good sized loaves.—Boston Globe.

Mother Eve's Pudding.

Take six ounces each of sliced apple, grated bread, chopped suet and washed currants and mix together in a bowl with a quarter of the rind of one lemon grated. Beat two eggs stiffly and add to the other ingredients. Boil in a buttered mold and serve with white sauce sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

Rhubarb Puffs.

Cream one cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter, and two well-beaten eggs, one-fourth cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of baking powder, and flour to make a thick batter; then stir in one cupful of finely chopped rhubarb; half fill well-buttered cups and steam for half an hour. Serve with pudding sauce.

To Stop a Curtain.

If your curtain rolls up too violently and winds itself over and over the roller, put a screw eye in the wood stick at the bottom, and then, if you happen to release the curtain suddenly, it will not wind over the roller.

Could Not Write.

Versailles, Ky.—Mrs. Elisha Green, of this place, says: "I could scarcely walk. Now I am able to run the sewing machine and do my work; and my neighbors tell me the medicine must be good, for I look so much better." Cardui is a specific, pain relieving, tonic remedy, for women. In the past 50 years, it has been found to relieve women's unnecessary pains, and female misery, for which over a million suffering women have successfully used it. Try Cardui for your troubles. It will help you. At the nearest drug store.

Two Negroes Electrocutted.

Eddyville, Ky., June 24—Tom Lawson and Tom Martin, negroes, were electrocuted Friday morning for the murder of Hardin Ingram at Waddy, in Shelby county, in October, 1911. Ingram was killed after a negro girl complained she had been shoved from the sidewalk.

Proposals For Coal.

The Kentucky State Board of Control for Charitable Institutions will receive proposals for one year's supply of nut and slack coal; also mine run and nut coal, for the four institutions under its control which are as follows:

Central State Hospital, Lakeland, Ky.; Eastern State Hospital, Lexington, Ky.; Western State Hospital, Hopkinsville, Ky., and Kentucky Institution for Feeble-minded Children, Frankfort, Ky.

Said coal is to be bought upon the B. T. U. Basis.

Blank forms of contract can be obtained by addressing said Board at Frankfort, Ky. Only propositions submitted upon this form will be considered. Contracts will be for one year, beginning July 1st, 1913.

A certified check for $500.00 payable to the Kentucky State Board of Control for Charitable Institutions, must accompany each bid to guarantee that the bid as submitted is bona fide and that bond will be given for the fulfillment of same.

Proposals will be received until noon, July 10th, 1913, and must be marked "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Kentucky State Board of Control for Charitable Institutions, Frankfort, Ky.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Bob Taylor Lives,

In the two bright and beautiful books just issued, "Lectures and Best Literary Productions," and "Life and Career" of Senator Robert Love Taylor, handsomely illustrated, you cannot hear again his voice or see the humorous curl of his lips, that convulsed a continent with laughter, but, within the covers of these volumes, are the pictures woven of his wondrous words, and, laughing through their sunny pages, are all of the inimitable stories which he told to the multitudes. In "Life and Career," pens of genius have traced his romantic life from its morning in "Happy Valley," through his young and roseate dreams through stress and storm, through cheering throngs, and on into the waiting shadows, loved and laurel crowned.

We expect to sell millions of these books. First edition going fast.
